

Recurrent project: Overall management, co-ordination and common activities

The overall co-ordination and advisory activities within the major programme relate to, and interact with, all constituting programmes and are crucial for achieving efficiency and effectiveness in programme implementation. Several others, including the preparation of documents such as the Nuclear Technology Review and co-ordination in nuclear knowledge management and research reactors, cut across all programme areas of nuclear power, fuel cycle and materials, nuclear science and analysis for sustainable development, and their efficient implementation contributes to an increase of programme transparency and outreach.
