

Recurrent project: Overall management, co-ordination and common activities

The TC programme operates in five different regions and across all thematic areas of the Agency's programme. It is the major mechanism of direct services to Member States. Effective results based management of the TC programme requires the development of new strategic directions for technical co-operation and their dissemination to stakeholders, both inside and outside the Agency. Overall management and co-ordination are important to ensure that quality across the programme remains high and that all regions are treated consistently.

Good relations with senior officials in Member States and with other development partners are necessary to create new strategic partnerships.
