

Anzhelika Khaperskaya

Rosatom, Moscow, Russian Federation

Anzhelika Khaperskaya is a nuclear fuel cycle advance technologies development and implementation expert working for Rosatom as a scientific secretary in the specialized scientific and technical council. Under her leadership a number of Nuclear Fuel Complex innovative infrastructure projects have been successfully implemented.

She has wide international experience in nuclear fuel cycle technologies development. In the IAEA, she was involved in the Technical Working Group on Nuclear Fuel Cycle Options and Spent Fuel Management and the Joint Convention meetings. She was also involved in the OECD Nuclear Energy Agency and the International Framework for Nuclear Energy Cooperation (IFNEC).

She has 30 years of professional experience in the nuclear field.