

Dodik R. Nurrochmat

Vice Rector for Collaboration and Information System, Indonesia

Professor Dodik R. Nurrochmat was appointed Vice Rector for Collaboration and Information System in 2018. He received his bachelor's degree from the Department of Forest Management, Faculty of Forestry (IPB) in 1994 as the best graduate. From 1997 to 1999, he pursued a Master's degree on Forest Economics, and Tropical Forestry Studies at the University of Goettingen, Germany. In 2005 he earned his PhD Degree in Forest Policy and Nature Conservation at the same university (summa cum laude).

Recently, Mr Nurrochmat obtained the certificate of Prime Professional Engineer from the Indonesian Engineers Association. In addition to teaching at IPB, he was the Director of Career Development & Alumni Affairs of IPB from 2008 to 2013, Director of Strategic Studies and Agriculture Policy from 2013 to 2018 and, since 2015, acts as Chairman of the Board of Experts of the Indonesian Forestry Scholars Association/PERSAKI. He is also currently member of the International Council of the International Union of Forest Research Organizations/IUFRO, since 2005. Mr Nurrochmat has been serving as editor and reviewer of several recognized international and national journals and has initiated academic and research cooperation with various institutions. He has authored, co-authored and edited hundreds of scientific articles and 20 books.