Ref. No: IAEA-CN-310; EVT2102333

Announcement for the Young Professional Award

As part of its efforts to support the sustainable future envisioned in the UN 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development, the IAEA will specifically recognize the participation and contributions of students (bachelor's, Master's, or doctoral students), postdoctoral fellows, and young professionals working in the fields of radiopharmaceuticals at the upcoming "International Symposium on Trends in Radiopharmaceuticals" to be held in Vienna, Austria from 17 to 21 April 2023. The IAEA especially encourages women and nationals from developing countries to participate in the poster competition.

Young generation professionals are invited to participate and will be eligible for consideration if they have an accepted abstract on any of the conference topics for poster presentation that is deemed outstanding by the respective selection committee based on the quality of the presentation and the quality of the submitted abstract.

Award

Finalists will receive a certificate signed by the Scientific Secretary of Conference: Director of the IAEA Division of Physical and Chemical Sciences.

Eligibility for award

Applicants must be students or early career professionals up to 35 years of age. They can be bachelor's, Master's, or doctoral students, postdoctoral fellows, or young professionals working in this industry. Young generation professionals with abstracts accepted on any of the conference themes will be eligible for consideration. After participants receive an official acceptance of their abstracts, they will be asked to confirm if they are interested in taking part in this competition and that they fulfil the stipulated criteria.
