

Mary Coffey

Discipline of Radiation Therapy-Trinity College, Dublin, Ireland

Mary Coffey established the degree programme for radiation therapists in Dublin and was head of discipline until her retirement. She is currently an adjunct Associate Professor in the discipline. She is one of the founders of the Radiation Oncology Safety Information System for the reporting and analysis of incidents internationally. This system has now been adopted by ESTRO and, as a chair of the Radiation Oncology Quality and Safety Committee, will be jointly responsible for its maintenance and development. She has worked with the IAEA and ESTRO on curriculum development for radiation therapists, clinical audit, education and quality, as well as safety and risk management projects.
