

Amalia Peix

Institute of Cardiology and Cardiovascular Surgery, La Habana, Cuba

Dr. Peix is a Cardiologist and Nuclear Cardiologist at the Institute of Cardiology and Cardiovascular Surgery as well as a Professor and Senior Researcher. She is a member of the National Ph.D. Thesis Examining Committee for Clinical Medical Sciences at the University of Havana and serves as a member of the Governing Body of the Cuban Society of Cardiology, and President of Nuclear Cardiology. Dr. Peix is a founding member of the Latin American Nuclear Cardiology Society, Fellow of the American College of Cardiology (ACC) and the American Society of Nuclear Cardiology (ASNC) and a member of the International Council of ASNC. She was Head of the Nuclear Medicine Department at the Institute of Cardiology and Cardiovascular Surgery (ICCCV) in Cuba from 1991-2009 and then served as Deputy Director for Research 2009-2015. She is an IAEA expert in Nuclear Cardiology and clinical coordinator for several regional and multi-centric IAEA research projects. Her research interests include women and ischemic heart disease, phase analysis, ischemia-guided patient management, and multimodality imaging in cardiology. She has published more than 80 papers and chapters in the field of cardiology and cardiac imaging.