

INTERNATIONAL CO-OPERATION STARTS YOUNG

The Secretary General of the Austrian Red Cross, Mr. Hans Sevcik, found himself surrounded by young ladies aged between seven and twelve years one evening in November. Dressed in distinctive national costumes, they had come to present him with a cheque for 10 650 Austrian schillings ($426) to help with relief work made necessary by Austrian flood disasters. They and others who were unable to be present for the occasion had helped to raise the money by their efforts at an Agency Ball. The countries represented in this picture, from left to right, are Iceland, Pakistan, Philippines, Norway, India, Egypt and Iceland.
